Right Start Newsletter, Volume 3

We have been extremely busy learning about wild animals and farm animals. To connect what we learn at school to the world we live in, we visited the Zoo and the Farm. The children loved seeing the wild animals prancing around. After we came back from the zoo, we made a giant floor graph and tallied the number of animals we saw. We also compared different kinds of skin/fur patterns.

At the farm, many children saw cows being milked, and for the first time realized that the milk they drink at home originally comes from the cows.

We saw lots of vegetables growing on the farm so we also grew bean plants. They are all growing nice and tall, but we measured them to see which ones were the tallest.

Taking advantage of the lovely weather we went to the Rail museum and saw different kinds of steam and electric engines. The most favorite part, though, was the toy train ride. We will take one more trip this spring to Lodhi gardens for a picnic.
